

Introduce yourself!

My name is David Brown and I'm a member of the flute section.

How long have you been a member?

I have been in DCB for around 5 years.

Tell us a bit about yourself.

I trained as a doctor at Glasgow University and initially worked in General Medicine before seeing the light and moved into Psychiatry. After training in Glasgow and Dundee I returned to Glasgow in 1995. It was after I retired in 2016 that I was able to join DCB. I currently work part time for the Mental Health Act Tribunal for Scotland. I have been married to Susie (who was also a psychiatrist!) for nearly 30 years and have a daughter Heather whom you all know from the percussion section. I enjoy the outdoors and in 2019 managed to complete all the Munros.

What other instruments do you play?

My first instrument was the piano which I still play (a lot!). As well as solo playing, I love performing chamber music with friends (hopefully again soon).

Is there another instrument you would like to play?

Given another life (I suspect it would need to be quite long!) I would learn a string instrument—probably the viola.

What do you enjoy most about DCB?

Too many things to like about DCB—fantastic range of music, great company, interesting venues etc etc.

Favourite concert venue – past, present..... or future?

As for most of us Kelvingrove was an amazing venue – at least I got to play there once.

Favourite DCB memory?

So far only been on one tour—to Landeck. Love to do more.

Favourite piece we've played?

I have no particular favourite piece—the variety is the best bit.

Looking forward to getting back to rehearsals?

I can't wait to see you all soon and playing together.
